Bahadur Ram Chauder <sup>Prin<sup>l</sup></sup> has been some years a teacher in the Hindu College and has always given great satisfaction. Since I have been connected with that institution I have had opportu-nities of observing his zeal, his industry and his talent, I have therefore great pleasure in bearing my testimony to the high respectability of his character.
 He is a good English scholar, and would no doubt prove himself well qualified for any public situation to which he might be appointed where natural talent and a knowledge of the English would be turned to a useful account.
